

Registration is open for Vanderbilt Linkages' third Growing Research Integrity Together (GRIT) Conference, September 25-26, 10 AM – 4 PM (U.S. Central Daylight Time), developed in part under a grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office of Research Integrity ORIIR160029. This year we're hosting it online.

The two-day event focuses on the role of research administrators in promoting research integrity. It will feature U.S. experts in various fields of research integrity and research administration providing continuing education, sharing best practices and discussing take-away ideas we can apply today to support research integrity.

See the Draft Schedule: <https://goo.gl/wf7qsU>

Registered participants will receive access to presentation slides and handouts to use during the conference, plus a library of bonus materials, videos from the sessions and discussion guides to use after the conference. All materials will be available through the conference website after the conference ends – and if you can't watch the sessions when they're originally broadcast, you can watch them whenever you want after the conference ends.

Participants will receive a certificate of attendance that includes 10 hours of continuing education credits.
